

DEPARTMENT OF THE AIR FORCE
AIR FORCE RESERVE COMMAND

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL INDIVIDUAL RESERVISTS (IRs)

FROM: AFRC/CV

SUBJECT: IR SEXUAL ASSAULT PREVENTION RESPONSE (SAPR) & AIR FORCE
SUICIDE PREVENTION TRAINING

1. The Air Force remains committed to the resilience of our force and doing our utmost to prevent suicides. To better train our Airman, the 2015 Air Force Suicide Prevention Training Program has replaced the Advanced Distributed Learning Service (ADLS) computer-based annual training. This new training includes a small group discussion requirement.
2. Additionally, Department of Defense (DOD) and Air Force policy requires the Air Force to conduct annual Sexual Assault Prevention and Response training each fiscal year. On-going SAPR training allows us to continue our emphasis on eliminating this crime and ensuring all Airmen are in a command climate where they are treated with dignity and respect. The 2015 SAPR training includes an in-person briefing with the installation SAPR coordinator and three small group discussions within each member's work center.
3. To get the maximum benefit, IRs should make every attempt possible to complete the trainings as designed. However, when that is not feasible due to scheduling conflicts, training is available on-line to fulfill the training requirements for both SAPR and Suicide Prevention training.
4. Video links for these training sites and further guidance on receiving training credit will be provided under separate cover in the coming weeks to you and your Unit Reserve Coordinators (URCs). This guidance will include how your URCs will update your training in ADLS.
5. Should you have further questions, please contact your URC, HQ RIO detachment staff, or the HQ RIO/CAG at DSN 847-3307 or comm 720-847-3307.

RICHARD S. HADDAD, Maj Gen, USAF
Vice Commander